Introduction: Wake Up!

Our coffee beans come from Pacamara and we brew our coffee strong. Try our 18 hour cold brewed coffee served with an orange slice or our bottomless cup of American style drip.

Straight Shot

A single shot of our 18 hour cold brewed coffee served with a slice of orange

Americano Style

A double shot of our 18 hour cold brewed coffee served Americano style with ice and a slice of orange

Latte Style

A double shot of our 18 hour cold brewed coffee and your choice of regular or almond milk (B3O) served on ice

Tonic'd Up

A double shot of our 18 hour cold brewed coffee served with your choice of regular, yuzu or grapefruit tonic

Dark Soul Latte

A devilish latte with the power of activated bamboo charcoal made unsweetened with vanilla and your choice of regular or almond milk (no coffee)

Bottomless 'Cup of Joe'

An endless cup of our real American drip coffee using quality Pacamara beans and brewed extra strong

Our cold brewed coffees are all served cold. Not looking for a caffeine fix?
Check out our other drinks in Chapter 7.

Did you know?

A roasted coffee bean contains many compounds that are extracted during the brewing process. Some of those compounds, including certain oils and fatty acids, are soluble only at a high temperature. Cold water brewing extracts the delicious flavor compounds (and some of the caffeine) from coffee beans, but leaves behind bitter oils and fatty acids, leaving a perfectly balanced and distinctively smooth cup of coffee.

Did you know?

In 2012, a Canadian man stole 3,000 tons of maple syrup worth over $18 million dollars. Today, a 620 pound barrel of Canadian maple syrup is valued at $1,300, or about $32 per gallon, making maple syrup worth 13 times the price of crude oil. Unfortunately for the thief, he couldn't get out of this sticky situation and was sentenced to 8 years and a $9 million dollar fine.

House Fries

Seasoned potato fries served with 3 homemade dipping sauces

Caesar Salad

Crispy romaine with classic Caesar dressing, croutons, bacon and a soft boiled egg

Did you know?

Poutine originated in the Centre-du-Québec area in the late 1950s and was originally consumed in small "greasy spoon" type diners (commonly known as cantines or casse-croûtes in Québec) and pubs. In the basic recipe for poutine, French fries are covered with fresh cheese curds, and topped with brown gravy.

Did you know?

The origin of the phrase 'a cup of joe' is uncertain, but here are some fun ones to ponder.

Josephus Daniels, who was Secretary of the Navy, banned U.S. Navy ships from serving alcoholic beverages in the year 1914. This ban led to sailors consuming more coffee. Since Josephus Daniels was responsible for the ban and thus perhaps being partly blamed for the growing intake of coffee, the sailors nicknamed the drink after him, thus it became 'a cup of joe.'

A more plausible sounding theory is that the word "joe" simply meant 'an ordinary man.' For example, perhaps you've heard the term 'an average joe.' This term is used to describe someone who is thought of as being an everyday, ordinary kind of person, like the type of person that enjoys eating at Breakfast Story. Thus, nicknaming coffee as 'a cup of joe' would indicate that it's a drink for the common man, or the average person.
